L’ufficio che ospita la nuova sede dell’Ambasciata Australiana è un villino dei primi del Novecento, e rappresenta un classico esempio di liberty italiano a Roma.
E’ stata realizzata una pensilina in acciaio e pannelli di vetro con serigrafato il logo dell’ambasciata, tra il muro dell’edificio e la cancellata esterna, che rappresenta un elemento di protezione del percorso che dall’ingresso del giardino conduce all’ingresso del villino. Prevista inoltre la realizzazione di un volume di sicurezza per il controllo degli accessi (garritta), collocato in adiacenza dell’ingresso del giardino rivestito in pannelli di legno.
